by
R. H. KNAPPEN

The major press this week broke loose with a story about a California state office holder who was discharged for incompetency. He made the front page when he went to Washington and secured a government job at a pay increase of several hundred percent. It seems as though he is one of the big shots in the rationing of sugar, gasoline, etc., and probably ration cards as well.

This shouldn't surprise anyone particularly, for the press, including periodicals, is full of reports on the fearful inefficiency of the myriad bureaus functioning in the wartime capital. There is no doubt but that there is a great deal of bungling going on in government agencies during these times of national peril. It is a well established fact that many capable men have resigned important posts as "dollar-a-year" experts in this and that because they couldn't stomach the insults of the professional politico - bureaucrats and the don't-give-a-damn attitude of some men in high places. It is also true that a fashionable physician in Washington admitted in all seriousness that occupational diseases in the nation's hectic capital consist mostly of peptic ulcers and coronary thrombosis.

There are those who would have us believe implicitly in a Washington of utter confusion, but the truth is that when some several thousands of Americans are gathered together from the far corners of the country to organize a war program of the magnitude of that currently in the throes of birth, the efficient will black out the inefficient, and the bunglers will be overcome by the clear-headed. In other words, we may sneer at certain people high in the councils of government, but we must never forget that it is our system of democracy that makes it possible for these men to be where they are, and that their removal is only a matter of public pressure in the right places. The "let - George - do - it" attitude has no place in this country today, and the sooner we all realize it—and substitute action for criticism—the better off we'll be. In the meantime, we'll just have to put up with whatever inefficiency exists, and at all times keep in mind the fact that a democracy ceases to be a democracy when the people cannot find something to belly-ache about—and a means to share their pains with their fellow citizens.

And speaking of the press, it appears that Father Coughlin has gone a step too far to suit the F. B. I. and the post office department. And about time, too. Coughlin's magazine has been sticking in a lot of craws for a long time, and now, with the country at war — no matter how much many of us hoped for a peaceful solution—there is no place for a back-biting journel of appeasement. Personally, I see no reason why Coughlin should not be restrained in the same manner as William Dudley Pelley, and others of the same ilk. (I'm not a witch-burner, either, if you please.)

In his talk Tuesday night the President had much to say on the debit side of the war ledger. But some of his reports were heartening, too. Reports of the heroism of American troops and flyers in far places should make us glad that we live in a country able to put these top-notch units in the field as rapidly as we have—and that without shoving any of them into the fox-hiles with bayonets in their backs. To support them, and to vindicate our own worth in civilian life, let's all pledge a specific amount for defense when the coming house-to-house canvassers call in the interest of war bonds and stamps sales. Let's not only keep 'em flying, but eating as well. No more miserable creature exists than a soldier without his supper and enough smokes to see him through.

Bud Bachman and Evelyn Strieff Are Married Saturday

Saturday evening at 6:00 o'clock, Milton (Bud) Bachman and Evelyn Strieff were united in marriage by the Rev. Joseph H. Bennett at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius H. Bachman on Everett street. The marriage service was given special significance by the personal references of Rev. Bennett to his previous associations with the groom.

The ceremony took place in the living room before an altar of green ferns and white marguerites, illuminated by tall white tapers. On either side of the altar were large bouquets of white calla lilies and bouquets of white stock and snowballs added greatly to the charm of the room.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strieff of Escondido, was radiant in a navy blue suit,with white accessories, and her corsage was orchids. Lois Bachman, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a red suit with a gardenia corsage.

The groom, a third class petty officer in the U. S. Naval Reservers, wore the uniform of the navy and was attended by Fred Bell of San Jose.

Following the simple ceremony, the young couple cut the three-tiered wedding cake, which was served with ice cream and coffee to the guests, who arrived for the reception.

Amid a shower of rice and good wishes the happy couple departed for San Francisco where they honeymooned until Tuesday.

Relatives in attendance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bachman, Miss Lois Bachman, Mr. and Mrs. William Bachman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shaves and Barbara and Thais Shaves.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Woodie Smith of Campbell, a boy, William Ronald, on April 20, at O'Connor sanitarium.

Busy Bee Will Move Soon to New Location

Tony Turturici, who has conducted the Reliable Shoe shop, next to the Campbell Water company office, has moved his machinery to San Jose as Tony Raffanti, owner of the building is planning to establish his Busy Bee restaurant there.

The time when this can be accomplished is problematical owing to the difficulties in securing equipment, as he intends to have new and modern furnishings.

The arrangement of the room will separate the dining quarters from the bar, which will be one of many improvements.

Forthcoming Play Will Be Spooky

'Twas a wild stormy night. The wind howled about a bleak old house on a lonely road. Lightning flashed. A rocking chair rocked of its own accord in an old, dimly lit ghostly room. Anything could happen here!

Such is the opening scene of "The Scarecrow Creeps," the comedy - mystery play which The Footlighters will present on Friday evening, May 15 at the grammar school auditorium.

Tickets will be on sale soon by members of The Footlighters and the Country Woman's club, who are sponsoring the production. Proceeds are to be used where most needed in war work in the community.

School Students Present Program At Club Meeting

"What are we as youths doing in the war effort" was the subject presented by senior students of the Campbell Union High school at the meeting of the Kiwanis club Tuesday.

W. H. Van Dyke presented Miss Jane Taylor, student body president who officiated very capably during the program which she introduced with a few words showing the purpose of the talks to be presented by fellow classmates.

Musical selections by high school students were also part of the entertainment, a piano solo, "Ignace-Minuet in G major" by Paderewski, by Nina Page; and vocal numbers, "My Hero" from the Chocolate Soldier, and the "Desert Song" by Sigmund Romberg, were sung by Ruth Cousins ,with Elaine Jeffers, accompanist.

As these talks show the spirit of the students and their very valuable activities and contributions to the war work, and their preparation for the years ahead, at the request of the editor, they are being published to inform those who have no personal contact with the school, that some of the criticisms hurled at our schools are not justified.

The following are two of the five talks presented. The others will be printed in the next issue of the Press.

GIRLS FACE THEIR FUTURE IN A WORLD AT WAR
Dorothy Harnish

How is the average high school student reacting to this war? Perhaps a little lightly you may think.

I should like to challenge that opinion which seems to prevail in the minds of the older generation.

Already the changed attitude of the high school girl is evident in her new interest toward the school curriculum. Girls, who were reasonably sure, eight months ago, that they would go on for two, or four, or even six years to college are now industriously

They Asked For It!

AMERICA'S FIRST food rationing program in a quarter of a century goes into effect for the duration on May 5. Every consumer in the land must have a ration book in order to receive the allotted quota of sugar, which has been set at one pound for periods ranging from ten days to two weeks.

When millions of householders stand in line in the nation's grade schools to receive ration books for themselves and members of their family, how many will reflect that this is more than a day of rationing? It is also a day of reckoning and retribution for the buying panic which raided the country's sugar supplies. There were fears that the country's sugar was almost gone. Consumers, all too many of them, proceeded to stock up their cupboards with heavy sugar supplies. They thought it was the smart thing to do, but they deceived themselves.

Such selfishness injured their neighbors, created an artificial scarcity, and sent prices higher, with the result that a genune shortage has occurred of so serious a nature that the government has had to step in and assume full control of the sale and distribution of every ounce of sugar in the country.

For want of a shoe the horse was lost, and for want of a brake on excess sugar buying 132 million consumers will have to acquire ration books; teachers will take their time to fill them out; retailers will be burdened with the time and expense of weighing and packing the individual sugar quotas, check customer's ration books, paste up stamps for their own records, turn in stamps and special sales reports to wholesalers before being permitted to order new sugar supplies. Such are the wages of panicky buying. The hoarders asked for it. Now everyone, innocent and guilty alike, must pay the price.

Dame Fashion

THE FEMALE of the species is more deadly than the male, it's said. We have no wish to revive an old point of dispute, but it does seem in order to add that the male of the species is more conservative than the female—at least on the question of haberdashery.

Across the country, men's clothiers report a very surprising spurt in the sale of men's suits. Men, for no good reason, are a little worried about the new Victory suit decreed for them by the War Production Board which, say reports, will be cuffless, pleatless and vestless. Disturbed at the prospect of looking somewhat strange in this new streamlined haberdashery, they hay have forgotten they will enjoy the moral support of some 45 million of their fellowmen between the ages of 15 and 100.

At any rate, if the female of the species got wind of similar news, that the near future styles would undergo a change, there might well be a virtual buyers' strike until the new styles came in, so great would be the horror of being caught, dead or alive, in an outmoded garb. With the male of the species it has been just the contrary which, at that, may explain why he WPB chose to freeze the fundamentals of women's styles for the duration.

DANSEUSE

Dancing Team At Auditorium This Evening

Veloz and Yolanda appear in person tonight in the civic auditorium, San Jose, in their exciting program of dance, comedy and melody, called "Dansation." With them will be their assisting artists, Jerry Shelton, accordionnist; Harry and John Hynda, two-piano team; and Vincente Gomez, guitarist.

Vincent Gomez is internationally famous, Segovia's sole rival. He has played in concert throughout Europe, with symphonies and in solo, and also in America. He has been a featured star over N. B. C. and other stations, and written for and played in moving pictures. His playing is so phenomenal that one critic said it "stopped a show cold."

Veloz and Yolanda have had endless superlatives lavished on them, but one has to see them to understand the delight they bring to their adoring audiences. "Immortal lovers" as well as immortal dancers, Yolanda telephones morning and evening to their Beverly Hills home, to talk, via the nurse, with their "$100,000 baby," Nicky.

THEY MEET AGAIN

Have You Written?

BACK FROM an air journey to Africa, India and China, columnist Raymond Clapper reports that the American officers and engineers he met at lonely desert outposts and jungle air fields asked him to bring back one message in particular to the states, "For gosh sake, tell them to send us some mail!"

That same message, we suspect, is in the hearts of thousands of other American soldiers and sailors at home and abroad, in training and at the fighting front. All of us can do a good deed by writing those we know in the armed forces. "Send us some mail!" is their plea. Don't let it go unanswered!

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

Old McDonald Had a Farm by Angus McDonald.

If you have read the book or seen the picture, "One Foot In Heaven" which was written by Hartzell Spence, and were thrilled by the sincerity and simplicity of the book I feel that you will want to read what Angus McDonald has to say about his 'Old Man" as he dubs his father in his book about his father's life in "Old McDonald Had A Farm," as they are similar.

The author's note in the front of the book will give you an inkling of what awaits you as you turn each page.

"This book is about my father, James Angus McDonald, and how he labored to make a good farm out of a poor one. I lived on this farm with him and my brother, sister, and mother from 1912 to 1922, near Sallisaw, Okla.

"He was to me the man who stood head and shoulders above all other men and he was the old man who was old yet ageless; old yet virile, vigorous and strong. I find it hard to believe that he ever was young."

Old McDonald was a minister, a Presbyterian minister. When he was young he served as a missionary, but he had always, all of his life, wanted to live on a farm and to operate a farm. So when the opportunity came he arranged a loan at the bank at Sallisaw, which his brother owned and bought twenty acres of washed out hillside land a mile from town. The 'old man's' brother told him that he could not make anything on the farm — that the land was worthless for raising anything and that he was throwing away money and using up energy in vain.

But Old McDonald lived and worked and preached and proved to everyone that he could make the farm a paying proposition. He even went so far as to buy forty acres more and made it pay also.

Angus tells one story about the 'old man' that is typical of his stubborn character all through the book. "He was stubborn and dogmatic and he was proud of it. 'I'm like the Scotchman who made his prayer: "A thank thee, Lord, that I am always right, for if I were wrong I would be eternally wrong." All this talk about two sides to a question,' the old man snorted. 'There's two sides to everything, all right—a right side and a wrong, and I'm always on the right side and I'm going to stay that way, that's all there is to it.' "

The forthrightness, the sincerity and honest narration of a hard, stubborn, yet strangely lovable old man, ranks the book with those that you will enjoy.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Gregory arrived Monday evening from the Great Lakes Naval station in Illinois where Mr. Gregory was in the naval service. He has been transferred to Moffett Field where he is an aviation mechanic. Mrs. Gregory, who was Miss Phoebe Payne, is staying for a few days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Payne, while they purchase furnishings for a house in the defense housing project near the Field.

Jinx Features Best Program Yet Produced

Amateur wrestling and boxing augmented by a professional wrestling match between "Butch" Rhode and "Slaughter" Johnson provided a crowd of approximately 350 students and adults with plenty of action at the fourth annual Boys' Jinx which was staked by promoter "Long John" Williams in the Campbell High school gym Friday afternoon.

Army regulations regarding night sports events caused the adult attendance to be small. However, those who did attend were in agreement that any high school in the state equal in size could not have put on a better show.

The amateur wrestling show put on by Coach Hudson's proteges, resulted in the following winners:

Toyama, 125 lbs. (Northern Calif. Jr. Champ) decisioned Tamburino; Mancuso, 145 lbs. (Northern Calif. Jr. champ) decisioned a stubborn Al Miranda in a bout which went into two over-time periods; Vick, 155 lbs. (Northern Calif. Jr. champ) decisioned Ray Benech. Rhode and Johnson then proceeded to maul each other and the referee, Cyril Barbaccia in true professional style.

Intermission music was provided by Bob Eldridge, Bob Richter, Newell Johnson and Bob Wheeler.

The boxing matches provided plenty of thrills for the fans even though two were postponed at the last moment. Results were as follows:

Hutchinson, at 115, outpointed Turpin; "Rusty" Sargent, 130, found himself up against a surprise opponent, Wall, whom he was barely able to outpoint; McCarthy, 140, got his Irish up enough to have Jacobs reeling around and tossing out feeble baby punches in the last round. McCarthy won the decision. McCorkle, 165, slugged out a decision over Wheeler-managed, Payne.

In the 160 pound class, Freitas, the Almaden "dark horse," presented Fox with a couple of stingeroo lefts that kayoed him in 30 seconds of the second round. The next bout between "Cisco" Garcia and "Tex" Samford also contained enough punches to be sprinkled over the entire Jinx. "Cisco" finally punched out a victory over "Tex." In the last match we again found a Wheeler pugilistic protege in David Anderson who slugged out a victory over stocky Johnny Koerner.

The wrestling official was Al Long, a member of the San Jose State wrestling team, assisted by Bert Robinson, former Campbell High student and now a physical education major at State.

Judges of the boxing bouts were Kenneth Dwelley, agriculture instructor at Campbell High school; Steve Casaleggio, wood, shop and mechanical drawing instructor; and Harold Drummond, science instructor, track and field coach.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Townsend of El Portal left yesterday morning for Yosemite after a brief visit with the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Townsend of North Union avenue. The younger Townsends have sold their home at El Portal and moved into the valley, where Harold is employed by the Park company.

Needs Help In War Effort

M. F. Hughes has been named executive chairman of the Campbell War Savings committee, by the treasury department of the U. S., and is asking for aid in contacting people in this community.

These committees go by high school districts and is a nation wide movement to bring a personal contact with every person, that it may help them to better understand the importance of this manner of serving and saving.

It is not the wish of our President, that America will ever have to have a forced saving as Germany has had. And let it never be said that America will send its finest and best and then be forced to give them that which they have to have to do the job we send them to do.

We must see the wisdom in this type of saving, not only is it necessary that we lend to "Uncle Sam" now, but we will have it when wages are not what they are now and when jobs are scarce. There are many reasons why it is wise to invest in stamps and bonds now.

There will be about twelve thousand people to contact in the Campbell district and Mr. Hughes must have loyal helpers for this job has to be done.

Will anyone in the Campbell High school district who can just give a small amount of time please contact Mr. Hughes by phoning Campbell 3837 and leaving your name?

Please don't wait to be told to do it. Let's all offer our services wherever we can.

No Fire Crackers Says Fire Chief

Lieut.-Gen. John L. DeWitt, U. S. A., has asked that appropriate action be taken in the states of California, Oregon and Washington to prohibit the sale of fireworks during the emergency.

Under sections 12, 500—12,513 of the health and safety code, no one may use fireworks without a permit from the local fire chiefs in those communities that do not strictly prohibit their use.

In a communication from Governor Olson, it is urged that we prohibit the sale or use of fireworks in this community.

Therefore: No permits will be issued in the fire limits of the town of Campbell, for the sale or use of fire works of any kind.

Violators will be waited upon by the constable of said district and prosecutions will follow.

America Day at Campbell High

Friday, May 1, is the date set for "America Day" at the high school. This theme was chosen because of its educational and patriotic value.

On this day students will be seen floating around the halls as pilgrims, miners,and even Indian chiefs. Big hats, pantalettes, bustles and hoops will all be in style. There will also be the Red Cross nurse, the various costumes of armed forces, and the other modern heroes and heroines that play an important role these days.

Following school, a dance will be held in the gym from 2:30 until the buses leave. A grand march will follow the dance, at which time prizes in the form of defense stamps will be awarded for the best costumes.

Training for Aviation Cadets To be Explained

The Army Fair Forces new program of enlisting college students on deferred service status for aviation cadet training will be explained to students of this territory Thursday, April 30, and Monday, May 4.

Two meetings will be conducted by a board of officers headed by Major Jay K. Montgomery of Stockton Field. The first will be in Room 100, Inner Quad, on the Stanford University campus at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, and the second at San Jose State college at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Special motion pictures will be shown, and all college students and high school seniors are invited.

Under the new plan, students in any year of college may enlist with the understanding that they will not go into training until they have completed an additional year or until such time as the Secretary of War deems it necessary to call them to active duty. Even high school seniors who wish to attend college may enter the higher institution and then enlist in the Air Forces under the deferred status.

Student members of the Air Force Enlisted Reserve will wear lapel insignia to indicate their status.

Talks by Students

preparing to step into positions within a few days after graduation.

These girls have realized how urgently Uncle Sam needs them—in offices, in factories, and on the farms. They know they are being called to the colors just as surely as are the men in uniform; and it is amazing to see with what eagerness they are answering this call—anxious to get in there and do their part quickly.

There has been a great deal more emphasis placed on the commercial subjects this past semester. More and more students are learning typing, office machines, bookkeeping, and shorthand.

The general atmosphere has been one of a striving, more than ever, to become more competent, more capable and more qualified to take up positions at the time of graduation.

It has also been found that the war has brought an increased interest in pre-nursing, hygiene, first aid, and homemaking. Girls who have followed academic courses throughout high school are preparing to go on to more advanced training, to qualify themselves for entrance into the army and navy nurses' corps. First aid has been one of the most widely accepted of all emergency measures, with over 40 of the girls enrolled in school taking both elementary and advanced courses.

There has been a growing interest in mathematics and the applied sciences. Our girls are vitally aware that this war is opening new fields to them every day, and they are not going to let the opportunity slip from them.

Work at the lathe, drawing board, or in the laboratory, necessitates technical information that previously girls have been inclined to leave to the boys, but the tentative schedules for next year show a much greater number signed up for such courses as chemistry, physics, applied science, geometry, advanced adgebra and trigonometry than in previous years.

We face a grave situation today, and if the young women at Campbell High school were slow to realize it at first, I am sure they are realizing it more each day. But, we have not yet reached perfection. We still have a long way to go.

American youth is not reconciled to being deprived of those things to which it has become accustomed. It has been difficult to maintain a cooperative attitude toward all war-time regulations, particularly those which tend to disrupt our way of life, but this feeling is being overcome, and I can assure you that within a short time this high school will be prepared, one hundred per cent, to meet any emergency. Each student, boy or girl, each teacher, is ready to get in there and do his utmost in the war effort.

Our girls face an indefinite future in this world at war, but they will meet, successfully, the problems of the future as they are now meeting the problems of today.

HIGH SCHOOL VOCATIONAL TRAINING FOR BOYS IN A WORLD AT WAR

Jack Smith

In times of national emergency such as these, every individual in the United States has, or should have, a definite contribution to make to the national effort. Our high school is trying to make its students aware of what they can do while they are going to school and is especially trying to give them the necessary preparation for doing their job well, whatever it may be, in a nation that might still be at war after they graduate.

What types of vocational training are provided for boys at our school to meet the war emergency? In passing, reference might be made to the work that is being carried on in the science and mathematics departments of the school. This is, of course, preliminary ground work for advanced education in the colleges and universities from which will emerge the doctors, chemists, and other technicians vital to our armed forces and to other war industries.

The shop program is another phase of vocational training which is very important to our war effort. Building model airplanes for use by the navy is part of the program. In the near future, the boys will start working on twenty-five stretchers for the Red Cross work in the community. These are just a few of the ways the shop program is preparing Campbell students for practical work.

The last part of the vocational training is the work of the agricultural department. This year at Campbell High there are 43 students enrolled under the State Vocational Agriculture Program, and almost all of these are active members of the Campbell Future Farmers chapter. This organization is working closely with the "ag" classes to step up production of essential products. Because of the seriousness of the food situation, the Campbell farmers have increased pork production 20 per cent, meat bird production 75 per cent, truck gardens 25 per cent, and poultry for eggs 20 per cent. The main purpose of this drive is to make the home more self-sufficient. This has been accomplished by the planting of many defense gardens. The boys have also planted a defense garden on the school grounds which is one of the ways they are helping to fill the county quota in the food for freedom campaign.

Another important thing accomplished by the "ag" classes was the training of pruning crews, who helped with the pruning on the local ranches, which probably would not otherwise been pruned at all because of the shortage of labor. A total of 30 boys were trained for this work and a crew of 10 was maintained for commercial pruning for afternoon and Saturday-Sunday work.

As you all know we are faced with a serious problem of how to get the crops harvested this season.

In the very near future the Campbell High school will conduct a registration of all its students for work of various types. The more experienced workers will probably be used as foremen in charge of the city students that will be "imported" to help with the harvest.

These are just a few of the things that our school is doing to prepare us for the big job that lies ahead of us. We all realize that this war is not going to be won without any effort on our part, and we also realize that we as individuals must take advantage of our high school's splendid vocational training and use this instruction to help our country win this war.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lane have sold their home on Pollard road and have moved to Richmond where Mr. Lane is employed.

TAIN'T NO USE

Tain't no use to fuss and fret,
'Bout the gas which you won't get.
Tain't no use to fuss or stew,
About sugar, less will do.
Tain't no use to raise your ire,
'Cause you hain't got no spare tire.
Tain't no use for moanin' low,
'Cause because you have some dough
That at present cain't be spent
Much on anything but rent.
Tain't no use to get a-jitter,
'Cause the times are somewhat bitter.
Put your chin up, that's the way,
And say, yep, business as usual today.
Tain't no use to keep complainin',
'Bout the times which be so tough,
Jus' you think of all the boys,
Out to call the Axis' bluff.
Are they fumin' and a fussin',
When their rations come up short?
No, you don't find them a cussin',
'Cause they jus' ain't that sort.
Jus' you start to be more cheeful,
Put your shoulders to the wheel,
Like the boys over yonder,
Who are stopping all the steel.
Take a pointer from their courage,
And when you are feelin' low,
Get up your fightin' spirit
And say, You old so and so !!
We will down you with our taxes,
And the war bonds that we buy,
And we'll do it, never worry,
And without a single sigh.

ELECTRIC POWER
swinging down from the mountains
was READY FOR WAR DUTY

At the army camps scattered from the high Sierra to the sea, usually the first earth turned was for the towers and poles bringing electricity for war duty.

Electric power was ready for the sudden summons to speed the construction of army training camps, forts and posts, air fields, bases. Electricity was ready to rush work 'round-the-clock. Night was turned into day with electric floodlights. Electric motors drove the power saws as buildings grew row on row along cantonment streets and about parade grounds.

Not a minute was lost. Electricity was there as the great time saver. And in scores of shops, shipyards, cannery and food processing plants, factories and foundries, electric power was standing by, ready to do its share to bring war industries swiftly to peak production.

Keeping a reserve supply of electricity available for unexpected demands presents problems unlike those of any other service. Electricity flows from generating plants silently, surely and dependably, along the swaying wires in the sky. It cannot be boxed or crated or stored in tanks or bins—it has to be used as it is produced. As demand for it increases, there must be more plant capacity to generate it and there must be adequate transmission lines to put it where it can work. Making it available, providing these facilities, is our responsibility.

Electric power was ready for war duty because there was careful planning yesterday in anticipation of the needs of a far-distant tomorrow. Planning and building for the future is a job that is never done. Fortunately, when the emergency came we were ready for it—ready with electric power to help keep 'em marching, keep 'em rolling, keep 'em launching, and keep 'em flying.
